

Aerospace Senior Design Selections

The aerospace senior design experience is an important part of your education and you are offered three options – the aircraft option, the space option, and the bio-flight option. To balance student load in these options, (which provides the best educational experiences), not everyone gets his or her first choice. This application is used as a basis for the selections.

Selection Criteria

Selections are made on the basis of major GPA and your level of involvement in extra-curricular activities (like participation in AE student clubs, research, organizations, and the AE honors program).

Submission Deadline

This form must be completed and handed in to the undergraduate office on or before the last day of your fall classes. Notifications of selections are sent out in the spring.
